

“NIKKI WATSON”

Meet Nikki Watson, proud mother of 4 amazing children and owner and founder of GABB. (Going Above & Beyond Basic) An organization focused on assisting women who are or have been incarcerated or going through a transition in life find purpose through their pain.

Nikki is an outstanding leader, committed voice, and community activist. As a leader in the community, she strongly believes in taking a stand and assisting those who have experienced life challenges by helping them reclaim their voice. Nikki's sole desire is to help motivate and push those feeling the stigma of society understand the purpose in their story. The is Purpose in the Pain and it's something Nikki knows all too well.

One of her favorite quotes by W.C.Fields “it's not what they call you, it's what you answer to is something she strongly believes. Which is why you can often hear her speaking to women telling them to remember who they are!! Quoting: “ Call me by my name” You are programmed to remember a DC number to identify yourself but that number is not who you are it's a page in your story. Her desire is to be the voice for those that have lost their voice reconnect families and help women overcome complacency.
